Recording Consent Form

Purpose of This Form

Some sessions at NeuralPath Strategies may be audio recorded for client use and support purposes. This form outlines the purpose, storage, and limitations of any recordings made during your sessions.

Recordings are not required and are only made with your informed, written consent for all future sessions unless revoked.

How Recordings May Be Used

Recordings may be used for the following purposes:

- To provide reinforcement tools or hypnotic suggestions for you to listen to after the session
- To support continued integration of insights or shifts between sessions
- To offer guided visualization or inner dialogue recaps upon request

You are never required to consent to recordings. If you do consent, you may revoke that consent at any time.

What Recordings Will Include

Recordings may include:

- Guided hypnotherapy or visualization portions of your session
- Verbal suggestions or imagery discussed collaboratively
- Reflections or summaries offered by the practitioner

Recordings will never include confidential planning conversations, intake discussions, or private disclosures unless you explicitly request that they be included.

Storage and Delivery

- Recordings will be stored securely on a password-protected and encrypted device or cloud storage service (e.g., Dropbox, Google Drive)
 - You will be sent a private access link to download your copy
 - Links will expire after 30 days, and clients are responsible for saving their copy for long-term use

Limits and Responsibilities

- These recordings are for your personal use only and may not be shared publicly or with others without written permission from the practitioner
- NeuralPath Strategies does not guarantee the functionality of recordings on all devices
- If technical issues prevent a recording from being made or delivered, no refund or re-recording will be provided
